Fr. Marshall's Musings Ascension Sunday

Doesn't it still feel awkward to call this Ascension Sunday instead of Ascension Thursday? Until a few years ago, this was always considered a Holy Day of Obligation, but because of its importance in the life of the Church it was transferred to Sunday and I think that's a justifiable reason for that transference.

The Ascension basically speaks about Jesus being taken up to Heaven and His mission on Earth has been accomplished. His teachings have been received by some, rejected by others. He went through the Passion and death of Good Friday only to rise gloriously, overcoming death, on Easter Sunday. Since Easter, the Church has been celebrating the Resurrection of Jesus and it should give us pause to hope that no matter when we are faced with death or illness or discouragement or despair that we will find new life because that is what Jesus promises us.

The Ascension though is really about us, the Church. By Jesus going to Heaven he is no longer guiding the Church in the same way that he did when His physical presence was on Earth. In a sense he entrusts the Church over to those who are baptized so that the good news may continue to be proclaimed and that the Eucharist will continue to be celebrated.

In the past we probably looked too much to the ordained or the religious for the governance of the Church. Today, with decreasing numbers of Priests and Nuns, I think that the governance of the Church falls more into the hands of the baptized.

At our recent Parish meeting, one sign of hope for me was that people were interested in forming a Parish Council here so that they could assist the new Pastor in the governance of the Church. I will make sure that Fr. Clark is aware of this and I'm sure that he will act upon it shortly after his arrival here. But other groups are also needed. I know I've been most grateful with the finance council in the last four months taking a look at the finances of the Parish. These are dedicated lay women and men who are professionals in business and finance who give good advice and guidance in overseeing a $4 million operation like St. Cletus. There are also other councils that help in the governance of the Church. The School Board is one and the Religious Ed Board is another. These too are dedicated lay people who give guidance to those programs and are valuable resources to the people who direct both the school and the religious education program.

My question to you would be, what can you do to help in the governance of the Church and make sure that the Church is taken care of as Jesus would want it to be? All of us have a responsibility to do our part and it is our responsibility by being baptized to participate in this way.

I am confident that in the 14 years that I've been coming here, there are many, many people who would be willing to direct new ministries in the Parish. My hope is that after Fr. Clark gets his feet wet, you will approach him with ideas, suggestions and then with the creativity needed in order that more programs can be developed and the evangelization of our community may grow even further.

We look forward next Sunday to celebrating the Feast of Pentecost which is the conclusion of the Easter Season and the bestowal of the Holy Spirit upon the Church. More about that next week.

Fr. Patrick Marshall

Welcome Sunday - Next Weekend

Welcome to all St. Cletus newcomers. Registration is available next weekend, June 3/4, after the 5:00pm Saturday Mass and the 7:00, 8:00, 9:30 and 11:00am Sunday Masses. Please stop by the back of church, say hello, and become members.

(1) Confirmation Program Registration

Attention St. Cletus Parish teens and parents! It's now time to register for the two-year high school Confirmation Program. This week, letters will be sent to all 8th graders currently enrolled in our School or Religious Education Programs, explaining the process and inviting them to register. If you do not receive a registration packet in the next week and wish to do so, or if you have any questions about our program, please contact Mary Beth Ford at the Youth Ministry Office, (708) 352-4641 or go online at mary.bethford@stcletusparish.com. Thanks!

(2) Looking for a Few Good Men & Women

Do you have enthusiasm for working with teens, concern for the growth and development of youth, a desire to grow in faith and share it with others? We are looking for some warm, honest and sincere parishioners who are flexible and are willing to give their time and talent to minister to teens in the position of Adult Small Group Leader (Advisor) in our High School Confirmation Preparation Program. These Advisors share their home and their faith as they meet six times a year in groups of 10-14 teens, to discuss, support and nurture their spiritual development.

Lesson planning/formation sessions are held monthly to give Advisors the support and guidance necessary to enjoy the many rewards of this ministry. Please take a few minutes to consider becoming an Advisor. This position is a two-year commitment, which has been filled by individuals, couples or can be shared with a friend. Please contact the Youth Director, Mary Beth Ford, (708) 352-4641, with any questions. I will be happy to meet with you and/or put you into contact with past/president advisors. Thanks!

(3) Food Pantry

A big THANK YOU! to the parishioners of St. Cletus, who always come through to help us replenish the shelves in our Food Pantry. There are many people in our community who continue to struggle to make ends meet...and our monthly Food Pantry helps to ease some of their worries. Several reminders:

- During the summer months our food donations fall off somewhat because of people on vacation, etc. However, our need remains constant. Please add some nonperishable for the Food Pantry to your summer shopping lists!
- All non-perishables are greatly appreciated, but this month our most needed items include jelly, soups, meals in a can, tuna, pasta and pasta sauce, canned fruits and vegetables, juice and cereal.
- These items should be dropped off in the Minister's Room in church when you come to Mass, especially on the first weekend of the month.

If you have any questions, please contact me at (708) 352-4641 or online at marybeth.ford@stcletusparish.com. Thanks again!

Other Food Pantry news: Our Pantry received a $1,526 check from the proceeds of last Fall's annual La Grange/Western Springs CROP Walk. Many thanks to the Year I Candidates who participated in the walk, and to all other parishioners who took part as walkers or sponsors of those who walked. The funds were used to give an Easter gift food certificate for perishables to each family who benefitted from our April food distribution.

Thank You...

The St. Cletus Parish Committee for Respect Life Activities wishes to thank all who brought items to the Baby Shower baskets in the foyer on Mother's Day weekend. Also, thanks to those who made donations designated to purchase items for this, our 15th Annual Baby Shower and Carnation Sale. It was one of our most successful Mother's Day activities.

Please Help...

Reminder: As part of my Eagle Scout project, I am collecting school supplies to be used by the after school program conducted by Pillars in our community and the public school system of New Orleans. The city of New Orleans hopes to have as many schools as needed open by September and they are in desperate need of basic supplies. The items needed most are: pens & pencils, crayons & markers, notebooks & paper, and backpacks. Anything you wish to donate will be helpful. I will have boxes in the back of church to collect the items this weekend, May 27/28 and June 3/4. Your generosity is greatly appreciated.

Needed: A New Maturity to Match Our Freedom

We are the freest people to ever walk this planet, at least in terms of opportunity. Our freedom is so great that, at times, it's almost a burden, an over-choice. We often find it difficult to commit ourselves to marriage, to a vocation, to a career, and to a friendship precisely because we are so free and have so many choices.

Freedom is a great gift. But it's easily misused and easily becomes a destructive thing. We've all hurt others and ourselves through the misuse of our freedom.

But something doesn't become bad just because it's misused. Food remains a good thing, even when we overeat. It's the same with freedom. It remains always the greatest gift that God has given us, even though we don't always use it maturely. Jesus came to bring us freedom.

But it's easy to lose that perspective and, today, it's not uncommon to hear sincere, good-hearted, religious people speak out against freedom, as if it were an enemy, something that should be restricted in the name of God, church, and morality.

While that's sincere, it's also misguided. What's needed today is not less freedom but more maturity. We don't need to roll back freedom in the name of God and morality; we need raise the level of our maturity to match the level of our freedom. Simply put, we are often too immature to carry properly the great gift of freedom that God has given us. The answer to that is not to denigrate freedom in the name of God and morality, but to invite a deeper maturity so as to more properly honour the great gift that we have been given.

Our model here is Jesus, himself. Nobody has walked this earth as freely as he did. But he also had the maturity to carry such great freedom without ever misusing it. If we can believe the gospels, Jesus wasn't afraid of anything - Satan, temptation, tax-collectors, prostitutes, street people, rich people, poor people, church people, non-church people, moral people, and immoral people. He went into the singles' bars of his time, but he didn't sin.

And in that lies the challenge: To walk in freedom, but not compromise ourselves in doing so. Not an easy thing to do. There is always a double danger: On the one hand, we can be too timid and too frightened to use our freedom to take God's presence and grace into places that are morally threatening, like Jesus did. That's often where we, as church people, sell ourselves and our freedom short. We are so afraid of seemingly godless places that we simply stay away from them, fearing for our own safety. That's sometimes a very prudent thing to do; it isn't always an imitation of Jesus. He wasn't afraid to go into godless places.

As well, there's the opposite danger, namely, that we go into morally dangerous places and lose ourselves there. Like Jesus, we eat and drink with sinners, but, unlike him, we sin because we don't have the maturity and moral strength to be in dangerous situations without falling.

But, dangers notwithstanding, the great challenge is to become mature enough to walk in the freedom of Jesus without compromising. Whenever we are able to do that, we become missionaries in the true sense, namely, we take God's love and light into places that are devoid of them. But that's not easy to do. We need models to help us.

Someone who can help mentor us on this, I believe, is Henri Nouwen. One of his great gifts was his honesty about his own moral and emotional struggles and the capacity to share that in a way that helps us in our own struggles.

Nouwen was scarily honest in admitting that he struggled. He shared that, even if you are sincere, prayerful, morally honest, and trying your best, it doesn't mean that you won't at the same time, also be weak, complex, tempted, torn, discouraged, forever at war with certain parts of yourself, sinful, and subject to obsessions, addictions, and pathologies. Our desires are deep, complex, unyielding, wild horses, bent on their own path - and all of this co-exists with what's healthy, good, and best in us. So it's not easy to be whole, mature, and to walk into morally dangerous places and not sin.

Nouwen was so honest and humble about this that there were seasons in his life when he wouldn't travel by himself, but always took along a companion, because he recognized that there are a lot more moral dangers traveling alone than there are when we have family, companions, and community along with us.

We aren't all as mature and as strong as Jesus. Like Nouwen, we need to be honest and humble about our weaknesses, sometimes we simply don't have the maturity to walk into dark places alone. We're wise to take someone with us so that, in the strength given by family and our community, our maturity can measure up to our freedom.
