NOTES FROM FATHER BOB...

Fourteenth Sunday in Ordinary Time

Are we saints or are we sinners? It would seem that we are both at the same time. The good, the bad and the ugly are all mixed together inside us and a civil war is often raging in our soul. St. Paul speaks about this struggle very eloquently when writing to the Romans. "I cannot understand my own behavior," he tells them. "I fail to carry out the things I want to do, and I find myself doing the very things I hate." This part of his nature Paul calls his "unspiritual self". His inmost self, his true self, he describes as his "spiritual self". Paul, then, is no stranger to Jekyll and Hyde. The human struggle is common to us all. But what will the outcome be? Is it a matter of chance or is it a matter of choice?

Saint Paul says it is a matter of choice. God's choice of us, and in response, our choice of God. The God who made us is also the God who will set us free. The God who breathed new life into the dead body of Jesus in his resurrection, will also breathe spiritual life into us to redeem us from the works of death.

So there is no need, no absolute compulsion for us to be wicked or to do the deeds of darkness.

Yet we cannot be glib or blasé about our lives. We know from experience how alluring evil can be, how attractive. The story of the serpent in the Garden of Eden is a very seductive image and very true to reality. Our weakness remains. Our inclination to selfish and sinful ways does not go away.

In a previous age the Church was very conscious of this sinfulness of ours and through preaching and the practice of confession brought home to us our need of humility and help. The prayer "I confess" was never off our lips. The classical teaching concerning the "Seven Deadly Sins" remains a powerful warning to us of how our lives can be destroyed by gluttony, sloth, lust, pride, anger, envy and covetousness.

These sins are the "misdeeds of the body" that Paul speaks about today. Allowing our lives to be ruled by these forces will destroy us. They are deadly to our spiritual life. The beginning of such self-destruction is, perhaps, the sin of pride: that independent spirit that refuses to listen or to learn; that know-all attitude to life that despises others and thinks so highly of one's self.

It was pride that prevented so many people from accepting Jesus when they met him. The Scribes and the Pharisees were the great culprits. By contrast, the humble fishermen of Galilee proved to be wise in their acceptance. Yes, the learned and the clever missed their opportunity. It was "mere children" who really understood the mysteries of life.

Understanding life and living it well will come to us if we learn humility of heart. The journey of life will teach us many things if we are open to what each day brings.

WELCOME FATHER EDGAR RODRIGUEZ

It is a pleasure to officially welcome our new Associate Pastor, Father Edgar Rodriguez, to our St. Cletus Parish family. Father Edgar ordained for the Archdiocese of Chicago in 2003 has been serving as associate pastor at Santa Maria Del Popolo Parish in Mundelein, IL. for the past five years. This will be Father Edgar's second assignment and we are very thankful that God has chosen to send him here to minister within our faith community. Please make a point to stop by outside under the tent after Mass and introduce yourselves to Fr. Edgar and make him feel welcome as a new member of our parish family.

Father Edgar WELCOME TO ST. CLETUS PARISH a very special place filled with God's love. May you experience the warmth and kindness of God's people here as Fr. Charles and I have over these past two years. We look forward to many years of ministry together. May God truly bless your time among us.

Extraordinary Blessings,

Father Bob

Invest just five minutes a day, and your faith will deepen and grow—a day at a time.

FOURTEENTH SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME
Full circle

When it comes to learning, there is a definite circular pattern to our lives. During the earliest years of childhood, almost everything we know comes from our lived experience. As we grow older and learn to read and think in abstractions, we obtain more and more of our knowledge from books and other “experts”—and as a result, we trust ourselves less and less. Eventually in our later years we realize that our truth has been within all along and we begin trusting our own experience again. Perhaps this pattern is what the artist Pablo Picasso was thinking about when he said, “It takes a long time to become young.” Where are you on the circle?

TODAY’S READINGS: Zechariah 9:9-10; Romans 8:9, 11-13; Matthew 11:25-30

“You have hidden these things from the wise and intelligent and have revealed them to infants.”

MONDAY, JULY 7

Your life as scripture

Sometimes we forget that all the holy stories in the world aren’t contained in the pages of the Bible. Our lives, too, are like sacred texts unfolding. That can seem a strange idea when you consider the contents of an ordinary day: busyness, tedium, chaos, headaches, and conflicts. Remember Hosea, the “performance prophet,” whose troubled marriage became the source of one of the most memorable books of prophecy. In the heartache between Hosea and his wife Gomer, he understood something wonderful about the love of God. If you viewed today as a page of scripture, what lesson would it hold?

TODAY’S READINGS: Hosea 2:16, 17b-18, 21-22; Matthew 9:18-26
“I will bring her into the wilderness, and speak tenderly to her.”

TUESDAY, JULY 8

The devil on your tongue

What keeps us from praising God all day long? Oh, probably a lot of things. Bad moods. Rushing around. People who drive us nuts. Distractions besiege us that make praise the farthest thing from our minds. But as the simplest form of prayer, praise could be the easiest way to find more time for spiritual growth. Try offering a few silent words of praise every hour. As you drive: What wonderful trees! As you look at your children: How creative, Lord! As you cook: Food smells so good! Keep the devil off your tongue with a mouthful of praise.

TODAY’S READINGS: Hosea 8:4-7, 11-13; Matthew 9:32-38
“And when the demon had been cast out, the one who had been mute spoke.”

WEDNESDAY, JULY 9

FEAST OF AUGUSTINE ZHAO RONG, PRIEST AND COMPANIONS, MARTYRS
Mixed blessing

With the summer Olympics approaching, religious toleration in China has been in the news. Christianity has a long and sometimes contentious history in China. While many of the foreign missionaries among the 120 martyrs we remember today distanced themselves from politics, Chinese authorities still saw them as foreign agents. Errors were made on all sides, which in 2001 led Pope John Paul II to say, after praising the martyrs for their courage and good works: “History, however, reminds us of the unfortunate fact that the work of members of the church in China was not always without error . . . I feel deep sadness for these errors and limits of the past. . . .” Imitate Catholic missionaries today who are careful to respect local sensibilities as they go about sharing the Good News.

TODAY’S READINGS: Hosea 10:1-3, 7-8, 12; Matthew 10:1-7

“As you go, proclaim the good news: ‘The kingdom of heaven has come near.’”

THURSDAY, JULY 10

Love me tender

Anyone who dismisses the God of the Old Testament as mostly vengeful needs to spend time with Hosea the prophet whose own personal life revealed the passionate love of God for God’s people. Who can resist the image of a God who lifts a child to his cheek, who stoops to feed her, who sweeps into his arms the wandering, teetering one? When Jesus asks if a parent could be so cold as to give a hungry child a stone instead of bread, he could easily have had Hosea’s words in mind. And when Jesus sends out his own disciples, it is not with threats but with good news of healing and peace freely received and freely given. Yet this is more than tenderness: “The Holy One is present among you; I will not let the flames consume you.”

TODAY’S READINGS: Hosea 11:1-4, 8c-9; Matthew 10:7-15

“I led them with cords of human kindness, with bands of love.”

FRIDAY, JULY 11

FEAST OF BENEDICT, ABBOT

Prayer work

Many people think the motto of the Benedictine order is ora et labora—“prayer and work.” In fact it’s not, nor will you find this phrase in the Rule of St. Benedict, the work today’s saint wrote to guide his monks. But these words do summarize nicely a holy way of life and also challenge us to see our work as prayer and our prayer as a work. Anything you do with an awareness of the presence of God is prayer, or at least prayer-ful, and that includes work. And it helps your prayer to see it as work—not in the sense of a chore or drudgery but as something worthy of concentrated effort. Can you find God in your work? Can you work more to find God in prayer?

TODAY’S READINGS: Hosea 14:2-10; Matthew 10:16-23

“Return, O Israel, to the Lord your God . . . Take words with you and return to the Lord.”

SATURDAY, JULY 12

FEAST OF THE BLESSED VIRGIN MARY

Body language

Pope John Paul II did a lot of things one doesn’t expect from one’s pope. One was to give a startling series of 129 Wednesday audiences on the theme, “theology of the body.” One might ask: What does theology have to do with our bodies? Consider the doctrines of Creation, Incarnation, Crucifixion, Resurrection, Ascension, and Assumption! When you get right down to it, it’s hard to talk about Christian belief without recognizing that the fate of the body is very important to God. Our Lady reminds us that discipleship starts in the flesh. Religion can’t be only a “spiritual” matter.

TODAY’S READINGS: Isaiah 6:1-8; Matthew 10:24-33

“Fear him who can destroy both soul and body.”

SAGAR MISSION (INDIA)

Pope Benedict and Bishop Anthony Chirayath

The Catholic Diocese of Sagar, situated in the heart of India, was created in the year 1968. Some 6,000 Catholics live amongst six million people, mostly Hindus. Msgr. Anthony Chirayath, the present bishop, is also the first diocesan priest of the diocese. In his missionary work he is assisted by 45 young diocesan priests and 215 religious men and women. The future of the diocese depends on 57 seminarians studying to become missionary priests. Bishop Chirayath worked in the Roman Curia for 34 years. When Pope Benedict XVI elected him bishop of Sagar, he was the Office Head in the Pontifical Council for the Pastoral Care of Migrants and Itinerant people. In this capacity he was a frequent visitor to the United States. His concern was the ministry to migrant workers and refugees, but particularly the Apostolate of Civil Aviation, Circus, Carnival and Traveling People. On March 25, 2006 he was ordained Bishop of Sagar. Bishop Chirayath speaks several Indian and European languages. He has traveled widely representing his Office and the Holy See. Today Bishop Chirayath speaks to us of the need for Catholic financial support in his diocese. Please, be generous in our Second Collection this weekend for his support.

TREASURES FROM OUR TRADITION

It's Independence Day weekend, and we are in the middle of a series on the Eucharistic Prayer. There is a link worth tracing between the Declaration of Independence and the language of liturgy. One of the signers of the Declaration on that July 4 long ago was Charles Carroll, probably the wealthiest man in the colonies and one of the few Catholics on the political scene. As a flourish to his signature, he sought to distinguish himself from other prominent citizens bearing the same name by penning "Charles Carroll of Carrolltown"—a defiant "come and get me if you dare" postscript aimed at the British.

Carroll's brother John was a priest and patriot who in 1789 was given the task of organizing the Catholic Church in this country. By 1791 he had assembled a synod, or assembly of delegates, to launch that task formally. Archbishop Carroll wanted to gain acceptance of our faith by American people who mistrusted our customs and could not comprehend our liturgy. He made the amazing proposal to Rome that our liturgy should be prayed not in Latin, but in the vernacular, English. His wish was denied, but one hundred sixty years later, his deep desire helped the American bishops and scholars at the Second Vatican Council to win the vote in favor of the vernacular not just for the United States, but for the Church throughout the world.

SECOND COLLECTION NEXT WEEKEND

There will be a special second collection next weekend, July 12-/13, to benefit two Cedar Rapids, Iowa Catholic Churches. St. Patrick and St. Wenceslaus, lost everything due to the recent devastating floods there. The effort to save these Churches was brought to our attention by long-time parishioner, Billie Kigin, whose son, Dan, is helping to coordinate the emergency clean up. According to Dan, the dire situation is beyond comprehension, with dangerous levels of bacteria and mold making efforts that much more dangerous and costly. Donations will be going through All Saints Parish, another Cedar Rapids church, which was not damaged, due to its location on higher ground. St. Cletus Parish has a long history of generously reaching out to those in need, with monetary contributions and prayer. Thank you for continuing that generosity.

STEWARDSHIP

*"For my yoke is easy, and my burden light."
(Matthew 11:30)*

When we think of being good stewards, we may think that God asks too much of us by asking us to generously share our time, talent and treasure. But the yoke of stewardship is not heavy. Good stewards learn that by passing up the materialism of the world, we can experience great joy in spending more time with God and sharing more of our gifts with others.
