Notes from Father Bob...

Fourth Sunday of Easter

“Christ suffered for you and left an example for you to follow the way he took.”

The First Letter of Peter is written to Christians who are living in a variety of cities now located in modern Turkey. Christians were minorities who often experienced opposition and persecution from their neighbors. The letter gives encouragement to the Christians and tells them that the life of Christian discipleship will often lead to suffering in the same way as it led to Christ’s crucifixion. In the midst of suffering, Peter encourages them to be faithful and to trust in Christ. They have the responsibility to live as good citizens and contribute to society but also to hold firm to their beliefs and values. This will lead to difficulties.

The letter intends to show the way in which love motivated Christ to give his life so that others may have life to the fullest. It is hard to understand that Christ allowed himself to suffer because of his love for his Father and for humankind. Love enabled him to be faithful to his mission and continue to spread the message that the Father loves all, especially those who are weak, weary and may feel lost. His love enabled him to bear the sins of all people so that they might be saved. Christ becomes the Paschal Lamb, the one sacrificed at the New Passover, for the forgiveness of sin.

Christ is also portrayed as the shepherd who guides each person to the fullness of life. To speak of God’s love is not to speak of something abstract or vague. It is very particularly focused. Christ can hear the voice of each person who calls upon him. The distinctness of each voice is immediately recognized by God. The tone of the voice often reveals more about a person than their words. Fear and confusion, joy and hope, the whisper of love or the bark of hatred is often heard in the voice before the words are understood. Whatever our prayer, God hears the tone of the voice even if the words are inadequate. As Shepherd, Christ is alert and sensitive to respond to the need.

Jesus is often pictured on the cross as the mystery of innocent suffering. He is pictured as the Paschal Lamb who is both victim and priest. He is victim of the violence against him that led to the crucifixion. He is priest in that he offers himself so that sins may be forgiven and healing given to those who seek him. His love is an example for others to imitate.

Down through the centuries we know that many have suffered and died for their faith and even today there is persecution in many parts of the world. The suffering of Christians continues among those who proclaim justice where there is injustice, corrupt government or abusive economic practice. Many have disappeared because they spoke the word of justice. In many countries, Catholics suffer because their values are not respected. For example, even in the United States or Great Britain, it can be difficult to work in obstetrics or gynecology if one is opposed to abortion. The situation that Peter describes continues today for many people. The protection of religious liberty is a starting point for the work of justice.

Reconciliation (Confession)

I would like to remind everyone that St. Cletus Parish provides the opportunity for Confession every Saturday before the 5:00 p.m. Mass from 4:15 p.m. until 4:45 p.m. or by appointment through the rectory. During this Holy Easter season let us be reminded of God’s generous outpouring of Mercy and take advantage of this opportunity to experience it through the grace of the sacrament of Reconciliation.

Before confessing your sins, invite the Spirit to help you examine your conscience. Reflect deeply on your activities and attitudes. Let God know what you have learned and that you are sorry.

There are many ways to examine your conscience. Many people use the Ten Commandments, a classic guide of good to do and immoral behavior to avoid. Others use the Beatitudes, a positive framework for seeking blessedness.

An examination of conscience is not like a test you take and report to the priest point by point. Rather, it jogs your memory to think about sins you may have ignored and see how they connect with each other. An examination of conscience helps you listen for God’s Spirit and summarize what you’d like to say.

Remember to look into the past, to see what wrongs you have done. Remember to look at the present, to see what habits you want to break. Remember to look to the future, to see how you could change for the better.

Easter Alleluia Blessings, Father Bob

Invest just five minutes a day, and your faith will deepen and grow—a day at a time.

FOURTH SUNDAY OF EASTER; GOOD SHEPHERD SUNDAY; WORLD DAY OF PRAYER FOR VOCATIONS

Of sheep and shepherds

When Jesus asks the Pharisees as to who among them, when losing one of his 100 sheep, would not leave the 99 in search of the one, he speaks as though this were an action most would take. But no reasonable shepherd would do such a thing. Who risks losing 99 to gain one? It makes no economic sense. That Christ would take this risk, then, means that for him, having one of us is no less valuable than if he had 99. His mission to bring the kingdom of God is fulfilled if it is only to find one person. God does not value us in arithmetic terms; he does not try to figure the greatest sum of persons he can bring to himself. Each one of us contains the totality of what Christ came to accomplish.

TODAY'S READINGS: Acts of the Apostles 2:14a, 36-44; 1 Peter 2:20b-25; John 10:1-10

"The shepherd calls his own sheep by name and leads them out."

MONDAY, APRIL 14 EASTER WEEKDAY - No more us and them

When the Holy Spirit descends, distinctions among nations and race are dissolved. This global unification, though most notable at Pentecost, can also be found in the Spirit's calling Peter to follow three Gentiles to Caesarea so that he might give them the Word of God, which up to that point had been reserved for Jews only. Clearly breaking with the social norms of the fledgling Christian Church, Peter obeys the God who "made no distinctions" concerning human salvation. The modern church continues to follow Peter's lead and align itself with the Spirit when speaking out on behalf of immigrants. Specifically, the church says that all immigrants must be guaranteed the same rights as nationals, especially in regard to wages and labor conditions. The Spirit calls us to give each member of our society equal dignity and opportunity.

TODAY'S READINGS: Acts 11:1-18; John 10:11-18

"Peter explained it to them, step by step: 'The Spirit told me to go with them and not to make a distinction between them and us.'"

TUESDAY, APRIL 15 EASTER WEEKDAY - What's in a name?

Make a big donation to the church, and get a nice-sounding name, maybe on a plaque somewhere. That's what happened to an early disciple who gave to the church in Jerusalem and acquired the name Barnabas, "son of encouragement." But Barnabas gave a lot more than money. He took the newly converted Saint Paul under his wing, introduced him to the original apostles, represented the apostles in the city of Antioch, and became Paul's colleague as a missionary. Names are important; as with Barnabas, they can reflect what people value and do. Christians are named for Jesus Christ. Do we live up to the name?

TODAY'S READINGS: Acts 11:19-26; John 10:22-30

"It was in Antioch that the disciples were first called 'Christians.'"

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 16

EASTER WEEKDAY - Choose your leaders prayerfully

In an election year it's interesting to note how the early church chose its leaders. The vibrant community at Antioch had several prophets and teachers to consider. The names Barnabas, Symeon, Lucius, Manaen, and Saul were all on the ballot, so to speak. The fact that most of us have never heard of three of these guys is telling. One of them, Manaen, had connections to Herod's court. But powerful friends weren't valuable assets in the end. Barnabas, trusted in Jerusalem, and Saul, trusted only by Barnabas, got the Spirit's vote. Prayer and fasting really does work better than eeny-meeny-miny-moe.

TODAY'S READINGS: Acts 12:24-13:5a; John 12:44-50

"Set apart for me Barnabas and Saul for the work to which I have called them."

THURSDAY, APRIL 17

EASTER WEEKDAY - Special delivery

The English word angel comes from a Greek word taken in turn from the Hebrew for "one sent," or "messenger." The topic of angels is one on which just about everyone has an opinion. Are they real? Are they still operating in our world today, or are they just a part of the biblical world? Can you see them? Do they have wings? There is one thing of which we can be sure. Today as yesterday, God does communicate to us through others. If we make an effort to receive all visitors as if they were messengers of Christ, we won't stray far from the truth.

TODAY'S READINGS: Acts 13:13-25; John 13:16-20

"Whoever receives one whom I send receives me, and whoever receives me receives him who sent me."

FRIDAY, APRIL 18

EASTER WEEKDAY - Ways and meaning

Language is a tricky thing. It can be wonderfully precise, as from the pen of a poet. Or it can be ambiguous, misleading, and multi-layered in meaning, as in our ordinary daily conversations with friends and family. Take the word way, for example. There are 44 definitions in the dictionary for this three-letter word! It can mean a path; a manner; a method, plan, or means for attaining a goal; a course that one chooses or wills; a direction or vicinity; distance; or space—and those are only the first seven.

Being aware of the many nuances in language can make us more careful speakers and, especially, listeners. Today, take care to understand what a friend or family member is trying to tell you.

TODAY'S READINGS: Acts 13:26-33; John 14:1-6

"Thomas said to him, 'Master, we do not know where you are going; how can we know the way?'"

SATURDAY, APRIL 19

EASTER WEEKDAY; PASSOVER BEGINS AT SUNSET

Send a message to the ends of the earth

Some Bible scholars see in the stories told in Acts and the gospels the roots of anti-Semitism. At the very least, it's evident that a gulf grew between the first Christians—all Jews—and the Jews who followed the prevailing forms of Judaism. Interfamilial wrangling blossomed into the horrors of the Holocaust. Pope Benedict XVI, soon after his election, spoke out against 21st-century ethnic and religious violence in the Holy Land when he said, "We will not keep quiet, we will do everything possible so that those in power hear us." And what shall each of us do to deliver a loud and clear message of tolerance?

TODAY'S READINGS: Acts 13:44-52; John 14:7-14

"I have made you a light to the Gentiles, that you may be an instrument of salvation to the ends of the earth."
