NINETEENTH SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME - That sinking feeling

Two of the most well-known stories in scripture—God’s coming to Elijah in a “tiny whispering sound” and Jesus’ walk on the water—say a lot about our spiritual journey. Elijah was not in a good way. He lived in a bad place with a bad king, the other prophets were dead, and Queen Jezebel had a contract out on his life. Saint Peter also had a problem: Boldly stepping out on the water to walk to his Lord, he got scared and started to go under. For both these holy people in distress, God came to the rescue. When things get tough, we can, like them, lose our nerve. But we know God will answer. The trick may be to have that confidence before we get into trouble.

TODAY’S READINGS: 1 Kings 19:9a, 11-13a; Romans 9:1-5; Matthew 14:22-33

“Peter got out of the boat and began to walk on the water toward Jesus.”

MONDAY, AUGUST 11

FEAST OF CLARE, VIRGIN - A prayer for the road

Houses in Assisi had two doors: one for daily use and another opened only for the removal of the deceased. When Saint Clare decided to escape from her impending marriage and join the community gathered around Saint Francis, she left her family home through the Door of the Dead. Her prayer is filled with the same decisive confidence: “Go forth in peace, for you have followed the good road. Go forth without fear, for he who created you has made you holy, has always protected you, and loves you like a mother. Blessed be you, my God, for having created me. Amen.”

TODAY’S READINGS: Ezekiel 1:2-5, 24-28c; Matthew 17:22-27

“The hand of the Lord was on him there.”

TUESDAY, AUGUST 12 - A taste of honey

Is there anything in the Old Testament weirder or more alien than what the prophet Ezekiel wrote? Erich von Däniken even found “evidence” for a spaceship in Ezekiel’s prophecies for his sci-fi hit Chariots of the Gods. Granted, Ezekiel did eat a scroll, give himself a strange haircut, and saw things rarely reported by people who aren’t hallucinating. But his were unusual times, with Israel in exile and God seeming far away. That Ezekiel was still straining to see God in his generation made him unique. Who in our generation is working this hard to learn God’s will?

TODAY’S READINGS: Ezekiel 2:8-3:4; Matthew 18:1-5, 10, 12-14

“The Lord God said to me: O mortal, eat this scroll, and go, speak to the house of Israel.”

WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 13 - Wings, wheels, and wisdom

When we think “cherubim,” most of us imagine that chubby little angel sitting on Grandma’s bookshelf. But the cherubim, who play a role in Judaism, Christianity, and Islam, are grander and more intimidating than modern-day cherubs. In Christianity they are the second highest of nine choirs of angels. Ezekiel describes them as curious creatures with both wings and wheels—which have given centuries of artists a field day trying to illustrate. Cherubim also have many eyes, which is why they received the attribute of wisdom. Their main job is to worship God continuously—which is what the wise do.

TODAY’S READINGS: Ezekiel 9:1-7; 10:18-22; Matthew 18:15-20

“The cherubim lifted up their wings and rose up from the earth in my sight as they went out with the wheels beside them.”

THURSDAY, AUGUST 14

FEAST OF MAXIMILIAN MARY KOLBE, PRIEST, MARTYR

Read all about it

Maximilian Kolbe (1894-1941) was a Franciscan Friar who volunteered to die in place of a stranger in the Nazi concentration camp of Auschwitz in Poland. What is less well known is that Kolbe was also a prolific publisher. He utilized modern printing techniques to publish catechetical and devotional material, a daily Catholic newspaper that reached a circulation of 225,000, and a monthly magazine with a circulation approaching 1,000,000. Within a month of arriving in Japan on a mission in 1930, penniless and knowing no Japanese, Kolbe and his brother friars were printing a Japanese magazine that grew to a circulation of 65,000. In both his life and his death, Kolbe spread the Good News.

TODAY’S READINGS: Ezekiel 12:1-12; Matthew 18:21-19:1
“I am a sign for you: as I have done, so shall it be done to them.”

FRIDAY, AUGUST 15 - SOLEMNITY OF THE ASSUMPTION OF THE BLESSED VIRGIN MARY With us always

It has often been observed that “as the church prays, so she believes.” That is especially true with respect to the Feast of the Assumption of the Blessed Virgin Mary. It had been widely celebrated for centuries when Pope Pius XII finally declared this belief dogma in 1950. What do we believe through the Assumption? That Mary remains present in the church and the world. That she is a living being with whom we can share our deepest fears and longings. That she is our mother, our advocate, our model of faithfulness and obedience to God. As for the institution, so for the individual: What do your prayers (and actions) say about what you believe?

TODAY’S READINGS: Revelation 11:19a, 12:1-6a, 10ab; 1 Corinthians 15:20-27; Luke 1:39-56

“Behold, from now on all ages will call me blessed.”

SATURDAY, AUGUST 16 - The right stuff

God makes it clear that God judges on the basis of one’s own behavior, not because of what one’s ancestors did—the latter being a common belief captured in a proverb: The father ate green grapes and the son’s teeth are set on edge. God says this proverb is out the window. In Matthew, Jesus stops those who would prevent children from bothering him for a hug and a blessing. It’s charming and sweet but not sentimental. For Jesus children are symbols of the little ones to whom the kingdom belongs, and he welcomes all with open arms. Jesus has enough of priests and Pharisees deciding who is “in” and who is “out” of God’s good graces. Our own distinctions and divisions also carry no weight with the Holy One. As the song says, “All are welcome in this place”—no matter which side of the tracks, or blanket, you were born on.

TODAY’S READINGS: Ezekiel 18:1-10, 13b, 30-32; Matthew 19:13-15

“Let the little children come to me and do not stop them; for it is to such as these that the kingdom of heaven belongs.”

NOTES FROM FATHER BOB...

Nineteenth Sunday in Ordinary Time

The trouble with words is that, so often, they lock us into a particular meaning, and leave us on a single level of understanding. When we say someone was a little merry, what exactly do we mean? A little tipsy, or a little joyful? And then there is the word vulgar. Does it imply bad taste, or simply rudeness? Or, are we using it in the earlier, original sense of describing the ordinary, as when we say “the vulgar tongue”? And did you ever wonder how a fraction could be “vulgar”?

In translations, finding the right word to express the meaning of the text is sometimes difficult. This is particularly true of parts of the Old Testament when we are translating the wonderful poetry of the Hebrew writers, and words have layers of meaning which would have been clear to their contemporaries, but can be lost to us.

In today’s extract from the Book of Kings we are introduced to two of the themes that run through today’s readings: silence and the unexpected.

Elijah was miserable. He felt himself to be a failure and he wanted to die. But he was ordered to eat and to journey to Horeb, the Mountain of God. There he was told to stand on the mountain, where the Lord was to pass by.

Now in those days it was believed that thunder was the voice of God. The Hebrew word “kol” means voice as well as thunder and storm. There was an earthquake that split the rocks, and caused a mighty rush of wind. These violent manifestations would have been seen as God speaking.

And yet God was not in them. He was in the sound of a gentle breeze. The Hebrew word also means a whisper, a calm silence, in one rendering “a sound of sheer silence”. All this wealth of meaning contained in one Hebrew noun, which we can lose in the single word, breeze.

Then it was that Elijah covered his face with his cloak and knew the voice of God. And yet we are so afraid of silence.

The unexpected also surfaces in Paul’s letter to the Roman. Here is a man whose very life is Christ, who said: “I live not for me, but Christ lives in me.” Yet he is ready to lose the essence of his being if by so doing he can save his fellow Israelites.

And in the Gospel? Where are these two themes?

Jesus sent his disciples away. He ordered them into the boat and told them to cross to the other side of the water. Then he went alone into the hills to find the silence that would allow him to be with his Father. These times of solitude seemed to be essential to his ability to continue; to be with his Father in stillness was like tapping into the source of his power, and realizing who he was.

Not so for the disciples, who were rowing into the teeth of a gale. Perhaps they wondered why their Master had sent them into such danger. Storms blew up on Lake Galilee without warning, and worse than a storm was what they thought was a ghost.

But he came to them, and called out to them; and Peter on impulse walked towards him across the waves. Was he testing Christ or himself? His courage failed in the wind’s strength, and in fear he began to sink, and cried out for help. Jesus put out his hand at once, and held him. Then came the silence as the wind dropped and the storm abated, and in the calm the disciples knew him as the Son of God.

God speaks to us in events. He is in the laughter and in the tears. He is with us in the ordinary, and in the sudden, unexpected storms.

He knows that we start things and do not always continue, and that we cannot always find the faith, let alone the courage to walk towards him. We imagine that he will override the noise of our world and tell us plainly in a loud voice what he wants us to do.

But he is unexpectedly silent. Yet if we find in the day a time to be silent with him – a short prayer in the morning, or a gathering into awareness at the bus stop or the traffic lights, or just the words “thank you” when we remember his goodness – then his voice will be in that stillness and his hand will hold us.

EXTRA NOTES FROM FATHER BOB...

Friday August 15, 2008 is a Holy Day of Obligation

Next Friday is the Feast of the Assumption of our Blessed Mother, Mary. Masses will take place on Thursday, August 14, 2008 at 7:00 pm for the Vigil of the feast and Friday, August 15, 2008 at 6:30 am and 8:00 am.

There is a Polish tradition that on this Feast Day people bring flowers to church in honor of Our Blessed Mother to be blessed. We will be blessing flowers after Holy Communion at each Mass starting with the Vigil Mass on Thursday evening and after the Masses on Friday. Bring some flowers in honor of Mary on this very special holy day.

New Prayer and Reflection Area on Our Church Grounds

I am pleased to announce that we have the addition of a new prayer and reflection area outside the east side of the church near the driveway between the rectory and the church. There are five new icon shrines representing the Crucifixion of Our Lord, Our Blessed Mother Mary, Saint Francis of Assisi, Saint Michael the Archangel, and Jesus, Prince of Peace. This new area provides each of us with a concrete reminder to stop and pray during our hectic daily routines. We will bless this new prayer garden after the 8:00 am Mass on Friday, August 15, the Feast of the Assumption of the Blessed Virgin Mary.

Extraordinary Blessings Each Ordinary Day,
Father Bob
