NOTES FROM FATHER BOB...

Second Sunday of Lent 2009

In today's Gospel three apostles see our Lord transfigured in glory. They are delighted; and who wouldn't be? They've caught a glimpse of who and what their Master really is. "It's wonderful," they murmur, "just wonderful to be here. Let's stay here; let it always be like this. Let the good times last."

But the next time they see their Master transfigured, how different it will be! He will be lying prostrate in the Garden of Gethsemane, his body bathed in sweat. How hard then for them to believe that this is indeed the only Son of God, the well-beloved One. But, a little patience, just a few more days, and that same Jesus, now ablaze with risen glory, will stand before them; and on that Easter Sunday morning they will realize that their doubts were unfounded. God will prove his love for his Son in a way they could never have imagined – not by saving him from suffering and death, but rather by enabling him to conquer them and finally by raising him up from death itself.

When we're given assurances of God's love for us, as we are today, that's like being with the apostles on the Mount of Transfiguration. During the times of our lives when we meet with tragedy; when we feel driven almost to the point of despair; finding it hard to believe that God does still care for us – that's like being with the apostles in the Garden of Gethsemane. And yet if we keep on trusting in him, keep on having patience with him even though he appears to have forgotten us, then for us, as for the apostles, there will be an Easter Sunday. On that day we shall be convinced, we shall know that he does indeed love us and that he always has, not least in those dark moments when he seemed so far away. Then, like Peter, we shall murmur, "Lord, it's good for us to be here." Only this time the joy, the thrill, the ecstasy will never grow dull: we shall have reached the destiny for which we were made.

St. Cletus Parish Lenten Mission

Please mark your calendars for March 23rd, 24th, and 25th to come to our Parish Lenten Mission with Fr. Rusty Shaughnessy, OFM. This is a wonderful opportunity to encounter the Lord during this holy season. Spend some time in prayer and reflection during these three days inspired by an inspirational mission director. Come let Fr. Rusty inform you, challenge you and transform you with prayerful insight into the true call of this Lenten season. Please plan ahead and set this time aside so that you don't miss the chance to grow in your faith and strengthen your spirit in preparation of our Easter celebration.

Parish Finances

During these difficult financial times we are all experiencing the effects of our need to tighten our personal budgets. Please know that your parish is striving very hard to do the same. We are making every effort to lower our costs whenever possible. I am sure you have noticed that we are running over $60,000 short of our current budget. We are cutting back wherever possible. If there is anyway you can help to narrow this gap in budget to income it will be a great help in allowing us to meet our current commitments and will be very much appreciated.

We are currently working on our budget for 2009-10, and while trying to maintain all parish services and ministries, we are looking at several additional cut backs including personnel hours. All salaries for all parish employees have been frozen for the 2009-10 fiscal year. Please know that we are very aware of the instability of these difficult financial times and are striving to prudently use and protect our parish assets.

Lenten Blessings, Fr. Bah

Invest just five minutes a day, and your faith will deepen and grow—a day at a time.

SUNDAY, MARCH 8, 2009

SECOND SUNDAY OF LENT

Have you been to the mountaintop?

Was Jesus transformed, or were his disciples? These three friends of Jesus were not always the most perceptive bunch. They weren't a particularly wise or well-schooled group of folks, especially when it came to formal religious training. But on one special day they glimpsed the truth about their friend and teacher. The story of Jesus' transfiguration in front of Peter, James, and John serves as inspiration and promise that we, too, can catch a glimpse of God's glory, regardless of our walk of life or prior training. All that is required is a willingness to follow Jesus to the mountaintop.

TODAY'S READINGS: Genesis 22:1-2, 9a, 10-13, 15-18; Romans 8:31b-34; Mark 9:2-10

"Then Peter said to Jesus in reply, 'Rabbi, it is good that we are here!' "

MONDAY, MARCH 9

FEAST OF FRANCES OF ROME, RELIGIOUS

Make the most of mercy

Seeking mercy for others even when none has been shown you is a sure sign of holiness. Saint Frances of Rome (1384-1440) suffered tremendous trials, including the death of two of her children, her husband injured in battle, another son exiled, and her family fortune seized. Through all her suffering Frances extended loving care to the poor and sick of Rome. One of the rare saints called an exemplary wife and mother, Frances was an extraordinary neighbor as well. She rejected a noble's life of frivolity and, instead, chose to dedicate herself to the service of others during a time of war, famine, and plague. What tender mercies can you offer today?

TODAY'S READINGS: Daniel 9:4b-10; Luke 6:36-38 "Be merciful, just as your Father is merciful. Stop judging and you will not be judged."

TUESDAY, MARCH 10

LENTEN WEEKDAY; JEWISH FEAST OF PURIM Saturday for the soul

A lot of us put off chores till Saturday, when we have more time to straighten up the living room, punch some pillows, gather up the newspapers, and sort through the mail. Isaiah issues the invitation today to set things right internally as well as externally. When do we ever observe a Saturday for the soul? Gathering and sorting are spiritual matters as much as material ones. And, yes, sometimes we may need to resort to a little straightening up, too. As our Jewish friends celebrate Purim with charitable works, let's reflect on how we might "set things right" closer to home.

TODAY'S READINGS: Isaiah 1:10, 16-20; Matthew 23:1-12 "Come now, let us set things right, says the Lord."

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 11

LENTEN WEEKDAY - The ladder of success

"Does a ladder go up or down?" a child asked. Good question! The answer depends on where you happen to be positioned in relationship to it. When it comes to the Christian journey, the ladder most certainly goes down, at least at first. Jesus did not deem equality with God something to be grasped, as Paul tells us in his Letter to the Philippians. Down to earth, down into our humanity, and down into suffering, death, and the tomb is the trajectory Jesus took. He could therefore teach from experience that the one who wishes to be great must be the servant of all. Seek every chance to serve.

TODAY'S READINGS: Jeremiah 18:18-20; Matthew 20:17-28 "Whoever wishes to be great among you shall be your servant."

THURSDAY, MARCH 12

LENTEN WEEKDAY

Tapping your generous spirit

It is tempting at a time of economic downturn to focus only on your own financial challenges and security. The instinct is to become less generous, not more so. But our own hard times, no matter how stressing, pale in comparison to the daily struggle for survival in many parts of the world. Many of the world's poorest, for example, must spend hours each day just to obtain a few gallons of water. The next time you turn on the tap in your home, say a short prayer for the world's poorest. And if you want to take the next step, Catholic Relief Services will show you how: Visit www.crs.org.

TODAY'S READINGS: Jeremiah 17:5-10; Luke 16:19-31 "A poor man named Lazarus, covered with sores, who longed to satisfy his hunger with what fell from the rich man's table."

FRIDAY, MARCH 13

LENTEN WEEKDAY - Coming at you!

Wouldn't it be great if there were such things as "Lenten 3-D glasses" that we could wear every year from Ash Wednesday until Easter? They would make distractions disappear into the background and the things that are really important—like faith in God, love of our neighbor, and care for the Earth—pop out. Of course those lenses don't exist, but the traditional practices of Lent, that is, prayer, fasting, and almsgiving, have the potential to produce similar results. When observed with the right spirit these disciplines help us ignore the hype and noise of our culture and make it possible to see more clearly the true value of people and things. How is your Lent going?

TODAY'S READINGS: Genesis 37:3-4, 12-13a, 17b-28a; Matthew 21:33-43, 45-46

"The stone that the builders rejected has become the cornerstone; this was the Lord's doing, and it is amazing in our eyes!"

SATURDAY, MARCH 14

LENTEN WEEKDAY

Rightness is not righteousness

The story of the prodigal son is one of Jesus' best, and one in which many can find themselves: the errant one who has come to his or her senses at last and is coming home, afraid it may be too late. Jesus seems, however, to point even beyond the father's breathtaking forgiveness for the son who has come home. There is that other son. That's the one we have to be worried about and be careful we do not become. The younger son, embarrassed and contrite (mostly), has accepted a love he may not even understand, but the righteousness (dare we say self-righteousness?) of the elder son (who has always done everything right) may be breaking away from his father in a far more destructive way.

TODAY'S READINGS: Micah 7:14-15, 18-20; Luke 15:1-3, 11-32 "And when he refused to enter the house, his father came out and pleaded with him."
