SO THAT YOU MAY BELIEVE

It is not often that the author of one of the books of the Bible comes right out and tells us directly why he is writing and what he is writing. In this Sunday's Gospel reading, taken from the conclusion of John's Gospel, the author tells us that he has chosen to record these events so "that you may come to believe that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God, and that through this belief you may have life in his name" (20:31).

The letter of John echoes this idea by saying that "[everyone who believes that Jesus is the Christ is begotten by God"] (5:1)—what we might refer to as being "born again." Our reading from the Acts of the Apostles for this Second Sunday of Easter shows us exactly what it looks like when believers are born again through faith.

NOTES FROM FATHER BOB...

SECOND SUNDAY OF EASTER 2009 "DIVINE MERCY SUNDAY"

In its original form, John's gospel concentrates the stories of the resurrection and the gift of the Holy Spirit into one chapter. Then, as if it were by popular request, John tags on another final chapter, with further supportive resurrection experiences.

The summary of the earlier chapter offers concise points of reflection on the risen Lord. To appreciate them fully we have to read them against the background of the whole gospel, for their significance has already been traced for us by John in the body of the gospel text. John's gospel, more self-evidently than the synoptic gospels, is imbued throughout with the presence of the risen Lord.

The two themes which dominate today's gospel reflect the usual Johannine pattern of gift and response. Jesus appears as the bringer of peace and the giver of the Holy Spirit. What is asked in response from his followers is faith as the indispensable channel for the new life in the Spirit.

Throughout the gospel Jesus has illustrated through signs and teaching his special relationship with the Father, a relationship which enables him to bring people into a new way of living. He is recognized now in his gift of peace and in his life-giving wounds. The disciples are filled with joy at seeing him, and he empowers them with the Holy Spirit, who will enable them to forgive sins and remove the blindfolds we put on ourselves.

The story of Thomas shows how difficult this can be if Jesus does not show himself to us. John uses this story of doubt to end his gospel with a reminder of the great need for faith. It is such faith that will enable the persecuted early Christians to discover true life in the presence of the Lord.

We can find many blocks on the path to accepting the new life of the risen Lord. There is lack of faith which dulls our perception, preventing us from seeing God's power working through us and in his world. There is sin, depression, sometimes even despair. There is our heavy investment in secular preoccupations and our failure to make the links between them and the divine life which can be celebrated in them.

Faith is not a purely intellectual adherence to the Creed or the truths taught by the Church. It is openness of mind and heart, nourished by prayer, the sacraments and our fellowship with other believers which allow us to discern God's love at work in us and in the world. Just as the risen Lord is recognized through his gift of peace and through his wounds, so we too express our faith through the giving and receiving of peace and through the living out of our own woundedness and vulnerability.

Divine Mercy Sunday

Today the church celebrates God's endless Mercy in our lives. Let us be grateful on this special day for God's abundant love and his desire that we experience his Mercy in our relationship with him each day. May we all look to God's Divine Mercy and become instruments of that Mercy in the world around us. A Mercy filled with God's love, compassion, forgiveness, understanding and charity.

Easter Blessings filled with God's Mercy, Father, Bah

SUNDAY, APRIL 19, 2009

SECOND SUNDAY OF EASTER - A little doubt can do you good

If you ever are in a "Thomas state of mind"-doubting your faith, doubting God's love, doubting our hope for redemption—consider all the great Christians who have gone before you who have experienced similar doubts: Mother Teresa, Saint Thérèse of Lisieux, Saint Teresa of Avila, Saint John of the Cross, Saint Thomas Aquinas, to name but a few. Doubt isn't the opposite of faith. In one of its forms, doubt is a recurring stage of faith. As we grow, change, and experience setbacks, our certainty may be shaken. Doubt sets in and forces us to review, update, and strengthen our core beliefs. Don't be afraid to confront your doubts today.

TODAY'S READINGS: Acts 4:32-35; 1 John 5:1-6; John 20:19-31

"Have you believed because you have seen me? Blessed are those who have not seen and yet have come to believe."

MONDAY, APRIL 20

EASTER WEEKDAY - Are you born again?

Have you ever been asked if you are born-again by other Christians? Just what does that mean? The King James Version of the Bible, on which many fundamentalist Christians rely, uses the term "born again" to translate the phrase in the gospel passage for today. The old Catholic Douay-Rheims did, too. But the Greek word can also mean "born from above." That's why the character Nicodemus in today's story misunderstands it. To be "born again" means to experience new life "from above," a life free from the fear of sin and death, because in baptism we receive eternal life and the forgiveness of our sins. Remember that the next time you proclaim, "We acknowledge one baptism for the forgiveness of sins. We look for the resurrection of the dead."

TODAY'S READINGS: Acts 4:23-31; John 3:1-8

"Do not be astonished that I said to you, 'You must be born from above.'

TUESDAY, APRIL 21

FEAST OF ANSELM, BISHOP, DOCTOR OF THE CHURCH Know what you believe and believe what you know

The centuries have witnessed the seesaw struggle between faith and SATURDAY, APRIL 25 reason. Some have been all for faith without the need to think too much, while others have seen knowledge to be enough on its own. One of those level heads who recognized that reason and faith can coexist and actually complement each other was Anselm, an archbishop of Canterbury who lived from 1033-1109. He famously described his way of doing theology as "faith seeking understanding." How, this way of putting it asks, can you believe if you have nothing to believe? At the same time, how can you put what you know in some kind of faith perspective? Faith and the ability to think are gifts of God. Use them both for the glory of God and the good of others.

TODAY'S READINGS: Acts 4:32-37; John 3:7b-15

"If I have told you about earthly things and you do not believe, how can you believe if I tell you about heavenly things?"

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 22

EASTER WEEKDAY - Released for good behavior

Would you risk prison and possible death for the sake of your beliefs? The question was anything but abstract for early believers in the risen Christ. Even before they had to contend with Roman persecution, these early "Jewish Christians" had to face the wrath of the Sadducees, an aristocratic priestly group that did not believe in the possibility of resurrection. The Sadducees disappeared from the scene soon after the second Temple of Jerusalem was destroyed in 70 A.D., but nearly 2,000 years later the witness of the courageous early followers of Christ lives on.

TODAY'S READINGS: Acts 5:17-26; John 3:16-21

"Look, the men whom you put in prison are standing in the temple and teaching the people!"

THURSDAY, APRIL 23

FEAST OF GEORGE, MARTYR - Stories as good as gold

The story of Saint George, soldier, dragon-slayer, and martyr, is one of many fantastic tales about the lives of saints recorded in an immensely popular 13th-century book called The Golden Legend. What was the appeal of such obviously fictional tales, and why have they persisted to this day? These stories offered medieval readers vivid portraits of human life. They provided a summary of world history and geography for folks who rarely traveled beyond their farm or village. The tales were full of strange adventures and wonderful miracles and were as exciting to read as any romantic novel of the time. They also offered wisdom and a model of life to inspire and guide—all reasons for us to enjoy these stories, too.

TODAY'S READINGS: Acts 5:27-33; John 3:31-36

"He whom God has sent speaks the words of God, for he gives the Spirit without measure."

FRIDAY, APRIL 24

FEAST OF FIDELIS OF SIGMARINGEN, PRIEST, MARTYR The defense never rests in the trials of the poor

One of the principal reasons people often give for turning off to organized religion is the long history of doctrinal disputes within and between traditions that have led to misunderstandings, violence, even wars. Fidelis of Sigmaringen was martyred in 1622 in such a dispute between Catholics and Calvinists during the tumultuous years of the Reformation and Counter-Reformation in Switzerland. What we can admire most in Sigmaringen, however, is not the way he died but the way he lived. After studying law, his great concern for the poor earned him the surname of "counselor and advocate for the poor." Bring a similar perspective to your own line of work or vocation.

TODAY'S READINGS: Acts 5:34-42; John 6:1-15

"As they left the council, they rejoiced that they were considered worthy to suffer dishonor for the sake of the name.'

FEAST OF MARK, EVANGELIST - Gospel walking

According to tradition the Gospel of Mark was written by John Mark, an early disciple who traveled with Peter, Paul, and Barnabas to help spread the Good News. Not the most eloquent writer, Mark wrote in simple "street" language yet with vivid action scenes, giving us a compelling portrait of Jesus actively taking hold of his role as the Messiah, the anointed one who has come to save the world. Mark shows us that, like us, the ordinary men and women who were early disciples didn't always "get" Jesus or his mission. Yet they persevered and came to a deeper understanding of Jesus through his death and resurrection. Walk with Mark as he tells the story of Jesus and get to know the Messiah who is active in your life.

TODAY'S READINGS: 1 Peter 5:5b-14; Mark 16:15-20

"Go into all the world and proclaim the good news to the whole creation."

STEWARDSHIP

"The community of believers was of one heart and mind and no one claimed that any of his possessions were his own."

-Acts 4:32

Stewardship calls us to recognize, just as the early Christians did, that none of our possessions is our own. All that we have - our health, our education, our skills, our talents, and our livelihood - are gifts from God. The natural reaction when someone gives you a gift is to want to give something back. What do you give back to God?
