NOTES FROM FATHER BOB...

FEAST OF CORPUS CHRISTI 2010

"Meals aren't what they used to be," said the old man. And I think he may have had a point. There was a time, not so long ago, when meals were special occasions, when they provided families and friends with a welcome opportunity to get together, when what was shared was not only food and drink but also, and even more importantly, each other's company. They were leisurely events and the fact that they were usually prefaced by grace was a hint that there might even be something sacred about them. But today, with "fast foods" and self-service and meals-on-knees in front of the TV, they are often little more than the meeting of a basic biological need; they are hurried, let's-get-this-over-and-get-on-with-something-else, affairs; and of course grace before meals has become a rarity.

And so it is difficult for us to appreciate how deeply meals were valued by ancient peoples, including our Lord's own people, Israel. They regarded them as having a sacred character. And so even in Old Testament times, salvation was often pictured in terms of a meal, a wonderful banquet with bountiful food and drink.

Against that background today's gospel takes on a rich significance, for it tells of an occasion when Jesus fed a huge crowd of over five thousand people with a few loaves and fishes; all had enough and more than enough to eat; there were no less than twelve baskets-full of left-overs. The fact that this incident - or one similar to it - is recorded no less than six times in the four gospels is a sure indication of its importance. It wasn't simply the miracle that filled the gospel-writers with astonishment but rather the magnificent generosity that marks Jesus' presence. After all, even before the meal began Jesus had been teaching his audience "about the kingdom of God" and curing "those in need of healing"; the multiplication of loaves, like the healings, was an illustration of what the kingdom of God means.

But even that is not the whole story. In giving their accounts, Matthew, Mark, Luke and John seem to have had in mind what happened on the night before Jesus died. It was then, as today's second reading reminds us, that Jesus instituted the Eucharist; he gave us the Mass; he gave us Holy Communion. The central act of Christian worship for all times would be in the form of a sacred meal, a banquet where his followers would be nourished on his own Body and Blood, and that meal would in its turn be a foreshadowing of the banquet of heaven.

St. Luke seems to go out of his way to show this close connection between the feeding of the five thousand and the Eucharist by the way in which he tells the story: he describes how Jesus took the loaves, blessed them (he did say his grace before meals!), broke them and gave them (handed them over to the disciples to distribute). Those four actions - taking, blessing, breaking and giving - are precisely the actions of Jesus at the Last Supper and of course they are the actions which we witness at every Mass. Indeed, you might say that they provide a brief description of the Mass. After the Liturgy of the Word, the priest takes the bread and wine, which represent ourselves and our lives, and offers them to God; then at the consecration he blesses them so that they become the Body and Blood of Jesus; later he breaks the bread and, if it were practical, would divide it so that everyone who wishes might receive a portion; and finally, he gives us the bread and wine as our food and drink in Holy Communion.

To celebrate the feast of Christ's Body and Blood is to rejoice and give thanks, because the Eucharist is the sharing in a meal infinitely more wonderful than that described in today's gospel. But it is also to experience a challenge. To receive that Body which was given up for us and that Blood which was shed for us, is to be called to follow the example of Jesus' total self-giving. To be fed by sacred food, is to be strengthened to live lives, lives devoted to God and our brothers and sisters. To be nourished by one who laid down his life for us, is to prepare ourselves to make sacrifices. To be invited as a guest to the table of the Eucharist, is to be invited to share with others from our abundance.

It is the Mass that matters; yes, that is true, but only if our lives are in tune with the sacred meal that the Mass sets before us.

Blessings,
Father Bob

June 2010

Dear Friends in Christ,

On the weekend of June 12-13, 2010, we will take up a special collection for the Retired Priests of the Archdiocese.

For many years now, we have relied on our retired priests to celebrate Mass and the sacraments in hundreds of parishes throughout the Archdiocese of Chicago. Without their dedicated service, many parishes would need to reduce the number of Masses celebrated each weekend. Some retired priests are called upon to be temporary administrators of parishes and others fill in to allow pastors some needed time off. Our senior priests do this willingly as a continuation of the many years that they have faithfully served our Church. Please join me in offering our retired priests words of appreciation and gratitude for their many years of priestly ministry.

The Priests' Retirement and Mutual Aid Association (PRMAA) cares for our retired priests. This year, we have seen the cost of healthcare, prescription drugs, and nursing home care increase. In addition, the priests' pension fund remains seriously impacted by the economic downturn. This special collection will help us to continue to support our retired priests. You may be aware that the December collection for retired men and women Religious is designated to provide only for those in Religious Orders. Archdiocesan priests do not receive any funds from this collection.

As the "Year for Priests" draws to a close, I would like to take this opportunity to thank all of our retired priests for their exemplary ministry. We are blessed to have more than one hundred retired priests over eighty years of age, which means that each one has served for more than fifty-five years. May their spirit continue to enliven our Church!

I am thankful to all of you for your remarkable generosity in this collection last year. I ask you to repeat your kindness this year. Your donations and your prayers are a great affirmation of our retired priests. Please pray for an increase in vocations to the priesthood. You and those you love are in my prayers; please keep me in yours.

Sincerely yours in Christ,

This simple fact changes everything regarding how people must approach the job search process. Topics covered in this presentation will include:

Assessing the Job Market and the Job Search Approach

Win The Job Interview Before it Begins: Implementing the 60-Day Plan

Effectively managing The First 60 Seconds and The Interview

The Unique Challenges Facing Job Seekers Today

Planning for your next great career opportunity

Update on Fr. Ron Anglim...

Fr. Ron Anglim who assists us regularly with Mass here at St. Cletus has recently experienced a change in some chronic health issues. Ron will not be able to be out and about for a time yet, he would like you to know that he is feeling much better and is anxious to return to his "usual duties!" Feel free to send him a card or note at: Rev. Ron Anglim, 7231 So. Wolf Rd. F6, Indian Head Park, IL 60525. We look forward to Fr. Ron's full recovery; please keep him in your prayers.
