NOTES FROM FATHER BOB...

TWENTY-SEVENTH SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME 2014

A motorist with a brand new car was proudly driving it on his first trip. The new car was filled with the latest technology which included the newest version of a GPS system. He was particularly taken with this on-board computer. All he had to do was to key in his destination, and his computer would find the quickest and most convenient route, using updated information to avoid roadwork, traffic jams, and accidents. Part of the motorist's journey involved crossing a river over a bridge. As the driver followed the computer's directions, it led him closer and closer to the river, though he in fact could see no road sign to indicate that he was coming up to a bridge. Nevertheless, knowing that the information on his computer was constantly updated, he drove on with confidence right up to the river and over it. Except that there was no bridge there—it hadn't been built yet—and the man—and his brand new car—ended up on the bottom of the river.

We might laugh at such stupidity. How could the man ignore the fact that there were no signs? How could he fail to trust his own eyes and realize that there was no bridge? How could he fail to get the message in such a drastic way?

The religious leaders in today's gospel did precisely that – and perhaps we too, in our own way, are deaf and blind to the messages we are given. The story Jesus told of the vineyard and the tenants would have been clearly understood by all his hearers. The religious leaders knew that the story was aimed at them – they are the tenants whose task it is to make sure that the vineyard – God's people – produce the harvests he expects. Like the tenants in the story, they had forgotten who is the owner of the vineyard, who they should be working for. They had forgotten God, and the expectations he has of his people. Instead, they looked only to their own self-interest, their own security and comfort, and failed to give to God the harvest he expects.

What is this harvest? Isaiah says very clearly that God simply expects that justice should flourish among his people; he expects integrity, that is, faithfulness, right living, fairness. Instead of justice there is violence and oppression. Instead of integrity, we hear the cries of distress from the exploited and dispossessed. Indeed, in the Old Testament, oppressing the poor is the equivalent of murder. So it is only a small step to go from ignoring the needs of the poor to actual murder. The duty to work justice and to protect the weak is as serious as that – there is no room for compromise or indifference. We are either on the side of the poor, or we are on the side of those who kill and oppress.

Obviously, this gospel serves as a warning to all those in authority – both religious and civic leaders. There is a duty to ensure justice and respect for basic human rights, not just in our own country or Church, but worldwide. But it does not stop there. What about the local communities we belong to – our city, our parish, our family? How is justice worked out there? Are we deaf to the cries of those who are victims of injustice, do we ignore the signs of inequality and unfairness?

And what about us as individuals? God sends all kinds of messengers to speak his truth to us, to give us warning, to explain, to teach, to encourage, to guide. Do we listen to the voice of God speaking in our conscience, or do we smother it? Do we hear the voice of God speaking to us in the Scriptures, or do we block out that voice by never even opening the Bible? Do we hear the authentic teaching of the Church? Do we turn away from the poverty of our neighbors, their loneliness, their sadness, their pain? It is easy for us to cocoon ourselves in a comfortable little ghetto, just as those tenants did, safely protected from the outside world behind the physical and emotional fences we construct to keep our world safe and undisturbed. It is easy to ignore the signs, like that motorist, and just keep on going the way we are. There are many ways of killing God's messengers, of isolating ourselves from the needs of others. But if we do, if we fail to produce the harvest of good works, then one day we too will have to face the judgment of the God who asks us simply to work for his kingdom through lives based on justice, compassion and integrity.

OUR MEASURE OF LOVE

The first Sunday in October is Respect Life Sunday nationally. The observance provides an occasion to call out a few leading assaults on life in our time and to measure the love we show in responding. Religious genocide commands headlines daily with the butchering advance of ISIS fanatics in Iraq and Syria, Jihadist slaughter of Christians in Southern Sudan and Muslim terrorizing in Nigeria. So do incessant gang murders in urban areas like Chicago.

Less noticed is the covert racial genocide promoted by corporate giant Planned Parenthood in strategically concentrating its abortion facilities in or near black neighborhoods and contributing to the grossly disproportionate number of African-Americans among the million-plus abortion deaths each year in our country.

Also little discussed is the expansion of physician assisted suicide, euthanasia and like practices which masquerade as compassion, reject the spiritual value of suffering and rest on a strictly utilitarian view of people. Human trafficking and embryonic stem cell experimentation fall into the same class of under reported wrongs.

All of these tragedies are intrinsic evils, acts which by their very nature are gravely immoral. Each has a dotted line of varying strength to what Pope Francis calls our throwaway culture.

Dorothy Day once said that we only love God as much as we love the person we love the least. We who profess to love God need to ask ourselves on this day of reflection how much we really have loved neighbor in the matter of respecting life. We must count out loud, with specifics, what we, our pulpits, our political organizations, our businesses, our governments have done to examine and turn our throw away culture around and to eliminate the harms it spawns. Our tallies may suggest we love God a good deal less than we think.

BABY BOTTLE COLLECTION TO SAVE LIVES

After all the Masses next weekend, October 11/12, baby bottles will be passed out for Women's Care Center of La Grange, a pro-life crisis pregnancy center. When you take home a bottle and fill it with change and dollars you may have spent on treats or entertainment during the following three weeks, you will be helping to save babies from abortion.

When young women face unexpected pregnancies, they need positive answers from people who care. Women's Care Center of La Grange provides free pregnancy tests, free on-site ultrasounds, confidential counseling, maternity and baby clothing, medical and housing referrals—all free of charge. Your generosity makes this possible.

The baby bottles will be collected before Mass on November 1/2. Thank you for being a life saver!

YEAR OF SACRAMENTS • ONE WORD AT A TIME

Cry

© Yanik Chauvin / Shutterstock.com.

One of the most heartfelt Psalm-prayers of a sick person reads, "I cry at night before you. Let my prayer come into your presence. O turn your ear to my cry." (Psalm 88:2-3) And, indeed, God does hear the cry of the poor sick person. The Anointing of the Sick is the sacramental assurance that God walks with us in our weakness and illness.

Those among us who are sick cry out to God, and they also cry out to us. When we celebrate the Anointing of the Sick with them, we assure them that we also walk with them. In our accompaniment of the sick, we follow Pope Francis, who urges us never to discard anyone, especially the poor, the sick, and the elderly. Our participation in this sacrament means that we hear their cry and affirm their value and dignity, especially in their vulnerability.

A PRAYER OF HUMILITY AND LOVE

What I love about praying the Rosary is that Mary asks each of us to join with her in remembering and celebrating God's most generous gift to us, His Son. October is Mary's month, so let us join with her this month by saying her chosen prayers. Maybe your child received a rosary for their First Communion. Maybe you have a special intention close to your heart. Maybe you just feel called to honor Our Mother and her Son. You can come before the 8:00 a.m. Mass during the week and pray the rosary then. Or, you can stay after the 11:00 a.m. Mass on Sundays and join us in the Children's Chapel. Next Sunday the Living Rosary is hosting a table in the Narthex with all things rosary. Bring your broken rosaries for repair or get a new one for a friend. We will also pray the entire rosary in Room 98 (Kindergarten room) on Sunday, October 12, at 12:15 p.m. It takes some extra time to pray all twenty decades (usually you only pray five decades), but it is a most moving way to pray your way through the Gospels. Come and spend some time with Mother Mary.

“THE STONE THE BUILDERS REJECTED HAS BECOME THE CORNER STONE...” -MATTHEW 21:42

Jesus was the corner stone and He was rejected by the religious and political leaders of his day, as well as ordinary citizens. Living a stewardship lifestyle may cause you to be “rejected” by others in today’s society. For example, saying grace before a meal in a restaurant may attract some strange looks from some. But to others it is a sign that God is alive and well!
