NOTES FROM FATHER BOB...

FOURTH SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME 2015

It is said that the greatest victory the devil has won in our modern age is to persuade people not to believe in him. His greatest skill is to deceive people. And if we believe in the devil at all, then it is often only as a sort of comic figure who prods people with his toasting fork. Even C.S. Lewis, who wrote a brilliant book called THE SCREWTAPE LETTERS, made the devil into a rather humorous figure. The book consists of letters that a senior demon, Screwtape, writes to Wormwood, his apprentice, giving advice about the ways in which he might deceive his victims. Screwtape tells Wormwood that their policy should be to conceal themselves for the moment but also to promote the idea that demons are really figures that don't have to be taken seriously. People can be tricked by their tactics. We can trivialize their significance by blaming the devil for every little mistake we make, "The devil must have gotten into me."

But in the New Testament the devil is no joking matter. In first-century Palestine, the world of the demonic was taken deadly seriously. The New Testament writers use the language of the demonic to describe the malignant forces they see at work in the world. This is how St. Mark sees the world into which Jesus comes. It was not neutral ground but occupied by Satan. The Messiah would have to be involved in a cosmic battle with him. The first challenge that Jesus faces is a struggle for forty days with Satan in the desert. As soon as he emerges from this encounter, Jesus announces the coming of the kingdom of God, which will break into the world through his own ministry. And in today's Gospel the battle begins as he performs an exorcism in Capernaum.

Jesus goes to teach in the synagogue. People are astounded at his authority because he shows in action as well as word how he can overcome the kingdom of Satan. He immediately clashes with the "unclean spirit" that possesses one of the congregation. The devil recognizes Jesus not as a healer but as a destroyer: "Have you come to destroy us?" Then he tries to trick Jesus into submission by using two names for him, Jesus of Nazareth and "the Holy One of God." It was believed that knowing someone's name gave power over that person. But Jesus is not deceived. He casts out the unclean spirit, who violently shakes his victim and screams out in defeat. The kingdom of Satan is pushed back as Jesus captures more ground.

Imagine such a scene at a Sunday Mass. What would people make of all that shouting and writhing in the sanctuary? It's not what we expect in church. But the biblical writers believed that Jesus was not just fighting against visible forces – as St. Paul tells us in Ephesians: "it is not against human enemies that we have to struggle, but against the Sovereignities and the Powers who originate the darkness in this world."

In our modern, scientific society we may be embarrassed by all this talk of demons and Satan. Modern medicine can certainly explain a great deal of the sickness and disease that we see in the Gospels. But a glance at the media today will remind us that evil behavior is still very much with us and it's not always easy to explain it away. On an individual level many people are taken over by powerful addictions, such as drugs, drink or pornography. They are imprisoned. Then whole societies and institutions can at times seem to be possessed by the urge to behave in an inhuman way, whether it is in the concentration camps of Europe, the battlefields of Syria or genocide in Rwanda. There can seem to be powers at work that are more than the sum of individual people's evil. This does not lessen our responsibility to recognize our own failure to speak out and to prevent evil behavior taking place.

The good news of the Gospel is that Christ has won the victory over evil and we can share in his risen power. Evil will never have the final word. Jesus calls us to stand firm against evil and unjust behavior in this world. We do not need to be afraid; as we can know that he is with us and has won the victory over Satan and all his works.

*Prayers and Blessings,
Father Bob
Pastor*

YEAR OF SACRAMENTS • ONE WORD AT A TIME

Wake Up

At a certain low point in the story of the now-destitute prodigal son, he wakes up to his situation. The text reads: "But when he came to himself, he said, 'How many of my father's hired hands have bread enough and to spare, but here I am dying of hunger! I will get up and go to my father'" (Luke 15:17-18)

©Shutterstock

In the Sacrament of Penance, we ask God for forgiveness that he gladly and generously gives to us. A very first step, however, is waking up to our situation and realizing how much we need God's mercy. The habits of sin may dull our minds and hearts. We may be sluggish in reflecting on our lives. Whatever numbs us must dissipate. We do need to wake up, and then with the prodigal son we can get up and go to our father.

Please Support the 2015 Annual Catholic Appeal "Entrusted with Responsibility"

Please spend some time this week reflecting on the Annual Catholic Appeal. Please remember that the Annual Catholic Appeal is much different than a one-time special collection. It is a pledge campaign where you can make a gift payable in installments.

As you review the work enabled by your contribution to the Annual Catholic Appeal, please reflect on God's gifts to you. He has given you all that you have. With these gifts, you are entrusted with responsibility. Your gifts to our parish, to the Archdiocese and to the work of the Church throughout the world should be given in gratitude for the continuing gifts that God gives you.

Each pledge makes a difference because all parishes participate in the campaign and the gifts of many enable our Archdiocese to deliver needed ministries and services. Our combined gifts not only signify our gratitude to God, they fund a significant portion of the work of our Archdiocese.

If you received your pledge form in the mail, please complete it and mail it back or bring it to Mass next weekend. For those of you that did not receive a mailing or have not had time to respond to it, we will conduct our in-pew pledge process at all Masses next weekend. Thank you for your prayerful consideration and generous response.

Young Engineers use Simple Machines and Creativity to Bring their Inventions to Life

After completing their unit on simple machines our fifth graders put their newly gained knowledge to work and designed inventions using simple machines. Cookie dunker, automatic dog feeders, and fun ways to collect dirty clothes were just a few examples of what they dreamed up and designed. Students tracked the evolution of their designs in a journal with sketches and entries talking about what worked and what didn't. Last Friday the young inventors proudly showed off their creations as parents and family visited the classroom.

Learning about Landforms

As part of their landforms unit, first graders selected four or more different landforms then brought them to life by creating 3D models using paper mache and various objects. They then painted and labeled them using their knowledge from the unit.
