Notes from Fr. Bob...

15TH SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME

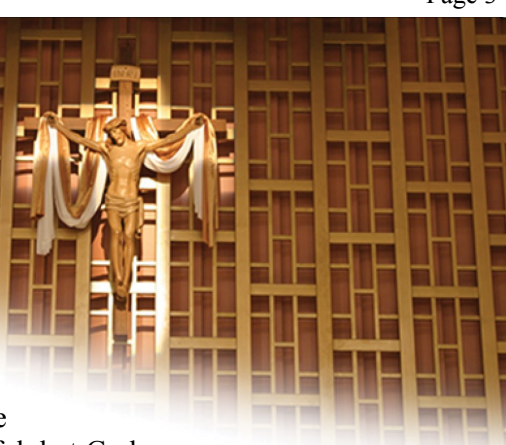

The first well-formed word of a child is always a moment of great joy and will be keenly remembered by a parent. It is a breakthrough and the beginning of a new and deeper response to the communication and love of the parent. Before this day, the mother has loved the child through a smile, through words, through touch. It is as though she has been willing the child to speak the first word. The child has seen the gaze of the love in the faces of mother, father, family and friends. She/he has learned to trust that gaze. She/he may have gurgled, chuckled and then smiled. Wants and needs were characterized by crying or screams. Now the response can occur through a word. It is the beginning of the great adventure of learning a vocabulary and being able to communicate. Initially the words of the child are garbled. They are not properly formed. It takes time for the mouth, tongue and muscles to work correctly so that a sound and word can be spoken. Sounds are learned and then words flow.

Anyone who has known the difficulty of learning a second language as an adult or struggled to speak a foreign language knows how frustrating it is to be reduced to being like a child when trying to speak a new language. Perhaps deepening prayer life is like learning a new language.

The prophet Isaiah likens the word of God to water, which pours down on the earth and changes it. Rain may fall as a fine drizzle which soaks the plants and the earth. Everything becomes saturated with water. It may come in a torrential downpour which drenches creation. Like heavy rain during a storm it may run off the soil and never be absorbed because it flows too rapidly. God's word may be like the drizzle, the downpour or the storm-rain. It saturates each person and changes them, even if they do not realize it.

Relationship with God can be likened to the relationship between the mother and the child. God gazes in love on the gift of creation and on each person, created in the image and likeness of God. Like a mother, God desires the word of a response in love. Firstly, like a child, the response is inadequate and only partly understood. Even if words are inadequate, there is a desire to grow in love of God. The words then become a prayer; love for God becomes expressed in life and action.

The parable of the seed is a reminder of God's plan for each person. God is faithful; the human response may be weak or distracted. We may be unfaithful, but God will work with this limitation. For each person, God has a plan and a vocation. Gazing at the child, parents wonder, "What will this child become?" How Mary and Joseph must have wondered about the future of Jesus. St. Paul promises that faithful discipleship will be rewarded. Although there may be suffering in life, the hope of the future can never be diminished. He likens the growth of the person in Christian faith to be the groaning of creation as it bursts into life. As the early Christian community experienced persecution, many must have been tempted to abandon their faith and enjoy the life of the Roman Empire. St. Paul calls for a growth in freedom and truth. He tells the Church that Christian living will lead to genuine freedom and glory as the children of God.

The life of faith is never static; it is always dynamic. God desires to deepen the relationship with each person but this requires a response in faith. People become tired with routine. This routine can be changed by trying to listen more fully to God's word. The scriptures remind us that God's plan is always unfolding in the midst of life.

At times, we are called to make difficult choices and to be faithful to the commandments and God's will. Such decisions can cause pain and suffering in the short run but ultimately will give a sense of doing right and living truthfully. Nourished by the word of God, the Christian is strengthened to respond in truth and freedom. God promises to sustain and nurture this growth in love.

In Truth and Freedom,

Fr. Bob
Pastor

Sunday Notes - 15th Sunday of Ordinary Time

FRUIT OF THE WORD

The seed is the word of God. The agricultural metaphors in all of today's readings give richness to the message that the word of God, cultivated in our hearts, bears much fruit in our lives. Creation itself awaits the redemption of all, even as our bodies await the resurrection. Just as we will rejoice in the fulfillment of God's word, so will all of creation sing for joy in the Reign of God. The word of God is effective and holy; it brings about exactly what it says. It is not futile or empty, but rich in meaning for those who hear and are healed. Those who hear the word of God and keep it will, with all creation, bear much fruit and sing for joy.

TREASURES FROM OUR TRADITION

Two centuries ago, Archbishop John Carroll worried that Americans would not appreciate the linguistic veil over our worship, and asked that the liturgy in the new United States be in English, not Latin. How did our liturgy come to be in Latin in the first place? In the first century, the dominant language in the regions where the church first flourished was Greek. Today in much of the world, almost everyone speaks at least a bit of English. Recently, the European Union even considered making English its official language, a curious proposal since only two English-speaking countries are members.

Just as English is a unifying language today, it was hard to function in the ancient world without a smattering of Greek. Even the word "Eucharist" comes from the Greek for "thanksgiving." For a long time, Greek was the language of worship, even in Rome. Slowly, society in the west shifted to a bias for Latin and against Greek. Latin first appeared in public prayer at the end of the second century, in the colonial outposts of North Africa. Soon, Latin became the language of culture, and so as fixed prayer forms were written, they were transmitted in Latin. From Rome and Africa, over the next four centuries, the new liturgical language of Latin spread north to Gaul and Britain.
